Our keynote speaker is Ruth Vanita, Professor of Women’s Studies, University of Montana. She is co-founder with Madhu Kishwar of the campaigning Indian magazine Manushi, and author of Love’s Rite: Same-sex Marriage in India and the West, and Gandhi’s Tiger and Sita’s Smile: Essays on Gender, Sexuality and Culture. She will show how Hindu texts of different kinds (philosophical, epic, devotional, narrative) construct the figure of the disabled sage Ashtavakra as a critic of social injustice with regard to gender, same-sex relations, disability, etc. Hindu traditions critique social injustice not in as directly recognizable ways as some traditions, such as Buddhism, might, and the critique is therefore often overlooked. But it is nevertheless powerful and effective.

Several other speakers at the symposium will also address social and moral issues—gender, caste, marriage—with reference to textual traditions. We expect some passionate and well-informed discussion.
